

International Conference on Money and Banking : Lessons and Challenges for Emerging Countries during the Crisis

Effects of the Crisis and Different Policy Responses: Emerging vs. Advanced Economies

- Robert Merton, Professor, Harvard University, 1997 Nobel Prize in Economics
- Martin Redrado, Governor, Central Bank of Argentina

Is this Time Different? What Can Be Learnt From the 30's and Other Previous Episodes?

- Barry Eichengreen, Professor of Economics and Political Sciences, University of California at Berkeley
- Jose Fernando De Gregorio, Governor, Central Bank of Chile
- Richard Berner, Managing Director, Morgan Stanley

The Length of the Crisis and Its Implications for Emerging Economies

- Fu Jun, Professor of Political Economy, Peking University
- Julio Velarde, Governor, Central Reserve Bank of Peru
- Rakesh Mohan, Former Deputy Governor, Reserve Bank of India

Global Liquidity Provision: The Role of the Dollar and FX Accumulation

- Olivier Blanchard, Director of Research, International Monetary Fund
- Maurice Obstfeld, Professor of Economics, University of California at Berkeley
- Felipe Larrain, Professor of Economics, Universidad Catolica de Chile

Is A Less Pro-Cycle Financial System an Achievable Goal?

- Anil Kashyap, Professor of Finance, University of Chicago
- Susan Wachter, Professor of Management, University of Pennsylvania
- Charles Goodhart, Professor of Economics, London School of Economics and Political Science

Exchange Rate and Monetary Regimes Under Stress

- Miranda Goeltom, Governor, Bank of Indonesia
- Jose Dario Uribe, Governor, Central Bank of Columbia
- Mario Blejer, Former Governor, Central Bank of Argentina

Monetary Policy Boundaries: Alternative Instruments and Policy Coordination

- Tobias Adrian, Vice President, Federal Reserve Bank of New York
- Kiyohiko Nishimura, Deputy Governor, Bank of Japan
- Christian Noyer, Governor, Banque de France